Interesting Letter From Former Madison Resident.

The interesting letter published below is from Mrs. C. D. Turner, formerly Miss Minnie Crandall, of Newby, this county. Mr. and Mrs. Turner moved to Earle, Arkansas, about three years ago. This popular couple have many relatives and friends in Madison, who will read with interest the following communication:

Earle, Ark., May 11, 1912
Mrs. John Allmen,
Richmond, Ky.

Dear Jennie:—
"Backward, turn backward, O, Time in your flight,
"Make me a child again, just for to-night."

On receiving your letter in imagination, twenty years rolled away and I was a girl again down in Posey, receiving letters from you. Are you like Maude, requiring some great disaster before you find time to write? Charlie and Dorsey have gone to town to-day, and true to the habit of childhood, when left alone I want to get into some meanness or do something out of the ordinary. Let's hope writing to you will settle the demon of unrest. I presume Maude has told you how the water got one and one-half feet deep in our house, and Dorsey and I left for five days, came back as soon as it began falling, went from stairway in a boat to the steps of smoke house, how we cooked up there on heater until water got out of oven of cook stove and Charlie could get into kitchen in knee boots and do the cooking. While I was gone, he lived mostly on raw eggs, too busy to try to cook on heater as it took hustling to save the stock. Water began falling on the 22nd of April and by the 26th, I could walk on ties laid from dining room to kitchen and next day could wash floors and stay down there.

stairs. The water fell rapidly and we began replanting garden and Charlie and man putting in crop, then the second rise came, it is over one-fourth of garden and edges of yard, about ten or eleven acres of land is uncovered and that has been planted, but it still creeps in. The crest of wave reached Memphis Thursday, so we don't see why this don't begin to fall. We lost all garden, most of fruit trees, flowers, grass, three heads of cattle, two litters of pigs, and if this water don't go down soon, may lose crop, and yet our lot is easy compared to those nearer levees. You said you supposed the Titanic disaster was worse than this. The newspaper version of Titanic loss is worse, that's all. You know the South has no great newspapers, because the reporters are snobs, they chronicle only those events in which the rich are participants. Had this overflow occurred in the East or West, you would have had column after column of heartrending details of the lonely farmers rescued from tops of houses, barns, and trees, of the millions head of cattle and mules lost, of the sinking of boats, and overturning of houses with women and children clinging to roofs, just when help was in sight. But as it happened in the South, and most of the sufferers were poor whites and negroes, their tales of woes go untold. Why Charlie and Mr. Cook, with a negro man, rescued one family of whites, man, wife and eight children, who had lived for days with water several inches on floor, and when rescued lacked six inches of reaching bed rails. The man was lying flat on his back with a knee split open, and too lazy to have anything if he had been well. The woman came to me a few days later begging flour, meat and lard, saying her children were hungry, also milk for a two-months old baby which they were raising on canned milk, and it hadn't any for twenty-four hours. I had one of her children for days and took another. Anything in Titanic compared to that mother, seeing her children, starving and the suffering of that tiny baby? And yet this is only one of perhaps a thousand worse cases. From the bluff at St. Louis to the Gulf, 150,000 people are homeless, many of them having lost practically everything they had. The U. S. government is sending rations to 80,000, and right here is one of the greatest frauds ever perpetrated. Except in refugee camps, very few of the real sufferers ever received any government aid, the merchants and big men got it as it came in, in carload lots and gave it out to their tenants, who were not even in overflow, and then charged tenants for it. The agent of Crittenden Railroad is our authority, has bills to show how these merchants shipped it to negroes where there was no water, down his line. The negroes and poor whites around us failed to get any although they went again and again. One Illinois man went to get rations for his tenant, they told him they had none. He replied: "All right, I've kept my men through this overflow so far, and am still able to keep them, but this matter will be investigated." They hurriedly told him to help himself. The people on Titanic met death in a few hours, but these people must live on with the work and savings of a life time gone. It is easy to die compared to living on with hope gone. The Titanic buried their dead, these people their hopes, which do you think the worse? Besides, if loss of life could be compiled it would be much greater than 1,500, for many suffered so from exposure that death will result, and then think of the sickness and death that must result when water goes down. As for ourselves, personally, and our little settlement, we came out fine and thank the Lord, it is as well with us it is. We received many letters of sympathy and some offering help. While we didn't need any help, you can imagine how we appreciated the loving thoughts behind the offers. Even our banker here asked Charlie if he would need any money. All we need is water to recede in time to get crop in and good health. Tell John, when the water was so high, we thought of a Kentucky hill would look. Charlie said if he just had one of them on his place, money couldn't buy the farm. We were offered a profit of $2,000 on our place in March and refused it. I wish now we had sold as we could buy cheaper close to town. A St. Louis man has already bought $100,000 worth of property from discouraged owners. Well, we aren't made of "give-up" stuff, we are sickers. While I hate it here now like sin, yet I wouldn't sell for anything. It is said the whole U. S. could live off the products of St. Francis Basin, the Mississippi Delta, the Louisiana Basin and the Lower Arkansas country, and yet for lack of men in Congress with "backbone" enough to get money sufficient to protect these, the richest agricultural regions in the world, lie a watery waste. We pay sixteen cents an acre levee tax in addition to other taxes, too; but any permanent good must come through great loss of life and property, so let's hope Congress will wake up. The crying need of the South is Men! Men! who won't sell out and are seeking the good of the many instead of the individual. Shall I tell you what has helped sustain me in this reconstruction period—which is worse than overflow? It is from a play, "The Chautauque." The cook when he found that the day dawned without his crowing, said: "Well, the soul needs a faith, however, oft that faith is slain." "But, how will you find new courage now that you doubt your work?" asked the pheasant hen, "I'm working," replied the cock. So it is by working, faith in our work is restored and we begin again to repair damages and erect on the graves of buried hopes, a new hope and a new faith in this great devastated land.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 29 - 1912

Once more the poor old patient consumer must dig down into his pockets and pay tribute to a trust. This time it is the coal trust, for the announcement has been made that the usual spring and summer discount of 30 cents per ton will be allowed this year.

The excuse given for this latest raid on the public's purse is that there is a shortage, and that it costs more to mine coal, on account of the increased pay granted to the miners.

It is known that there is no coal shortage. The coal trust expected, long before the expiration of the miners' contracts in April that there would be a shutdown, and in anticipation of that shutdown they stored up vast quantities of coal. Instead of a shortage there is an actual oversupply. The increased pay to the miners amounts to 2 1/2 cents per ton, which is considerably less than the 30 cents per ton the trust will save by refusing the usual discounts. It is the same old routine of exacting a large tribute from the public on the strength of a small advance to the workers. Thus the public pays not only the "strike" which was not, strictly speaking, a strike, but rather a temporary shutdown pending readjustment of contracts with the miners, but for the increased pay to the miners as well.

That the reactionaries in the Senate are still deaf to the voice of the people is evidenced by the fact that the Lammie committee, the majority of whom are last ditch standstills, have once more whitewashed the Chicago boss. There is little doubt that if the people of the United States could vote directly on whether Lammie should be retained in the Senate, the only ones who would vote for Lammie are his personal henchmen and job holders, and the tariff barons who need him in their business. More than 90 per cent of the 92 million votes would be against his retention. Yet the Senate committee is deaf to the protest against him, and dumb when pressed to say the word that would send him back to the oblivion where he belongs.

YET little one-man power was in evidence at the county convention held in this city Saturday. The Democracy of Madison county and her voice was heard—the result, an instructed delegation to Louisville. Perhaps Speaker Clark is not the choice of every Democrat in the county, yet his followers were greatly in the majority, and those who favored Wilson and others aside, the result was a just rendering of the verdict of a greater number of the Democratic voters.

NO BITTER feelings resulted from the convention of Saturday. It was a gathering of Democrats, who put aside bias and prejudice to the support of the party, all of whom were anxious for square and impartial treatment—an expression of the will of the people. This was accorded and harmony in big letters prevailed throughout.

THE devoted to the Democratic party, its principles and traditions, has been a constant reminder to the people of greater principles than that as much genuine harmony and good feeling exists at the State convention in this city Saturday.

"WOMEN AND CHILDREN FIRST" was the order on the Titanic. "Women and children first" is the motto of all fraternal societies. Over 8,000 members of fraternal beneficiary societies in the United States have adopted it. Ours is preeminently the age and the land of chivalry.

HERE is a bit of philosophy from an exchange: "If we didn't have dark and gloomy rainy days occasionally, we wouldn't fully appreciate the beautiful sunshine. A man who has been everlastingly broke appreciates a dollar more than the rich man does a thousand."

"Two Maryland men ate ninety-seven eggs at one sitting." And here all of us have been trying to figure out why the price has been so high.

To Hear Kavanagh.

Since the recent announcement that Judge Marcus A. Kavanagh would appear this season at most of the chautauques of Indiana, Michigan, Kentucky and Tennessee, he has been receiving many invitations to attend banquets in various towns and cities of these States while on this tour. The Knights of Columbus in this territory are especially strong and Judge Kavanagh is one of the best known members of this order in the country.

JUDGE MARCUS A. KAVANAGH.

At the recent state conventions of the Knights of Columbus in Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee, it is understood that announcement was made of all the chautauques on which he is to appear in each of these States and the day of each appearance, so that the Knights throughout the state can come to hear him at the chautauque nearest their respective homes.

It is estimated that there are 30,000 members of the Knights of Columbus in the four states in which Judge Kavanagh will speak. He is President of the Citizens' Council, Chicago, which is composed of Protestants, Catholics and Jews. The object of the organization is to obtain better civic government.

Judge Kavanagh will lecture on "Traitors to Justice," at the Richmond Chautauque, Tuesday, July 2.

New Motion Picture Show.

There will within the next three weeks a new and strictly up to date moving picture theatre opened up in Richmond. We are very glad to announce the opening of this new enterprise and assure the public of the best that is to be had in this line of amusement. The gentlemen who will own and control the new show known as the ALHAMBRA are Messrs. Ronald C. Oldham and Joe P. Chennutt. These men have bought a new and improved machine which will show perfect pictures and have contracted for the very best film service it is possible to get. There will be nothing shown at the new show that will not be up to date, clean and moral. The owners have secured a long lease on the building where the Ledford Racket Store was formerly and the contract has been let for the building of a very handsome theatre such as is seen in the cities larger than Richmond.

NO VAUDEVILLE will be given but the best pictures procurable in the country and good music will be the programme for each afternoon, and night, Saturdays all day. THREE PICTURES, GOOD MUSIC, FIVE CENTS.

Handsome new opera chairs, up to date electrical equipment, and all that makes the theatre will be installed and the opening date will be announced later.

We wish to assure the public that no form of amusement will be given in our show at any time that will not be of the highest standard of respectability.

Respectfully,
OLDHAM & CHENNUTT.

Gov. McCreey Recalls Episode When He Had a Narrow Escape With His Life.

A break for liberty on the part of convicts in the Frankfort penitentiary and a story of gratitude on the part of one of the convicts to the man who had defended him when accused, was told the other day by Gov. McCreey when in a reminiscent mood. The "break" took place when Gov. McCreey was in the Government office thirty-five years ago.

The Governor in talking about it said: "One Sunday Mrs. McCreey and I had been to church. It was a very hot day and when I went back to the mansion I was so hot that I removed my coat, vest and collar, opened my shirt and took off my shoes. I was sitting in the hall doing when I heard a commotion on the outside. I ran to the door and saw convicts in their striped suits dropping over the prison wall so fast that one could hardly count them as they hit the ground. They had built a series of steps on the inside of the wall, climbed to the top and dropped down on the outside."

"Without thinking about my disarray and the fact that I did not have on shoes, I ran down the street calling for others to come and help check the break. John Griffin, now superintendent of the Frankfort Water Company, was standing across the street from the mansion and he ran to my assistance. Just as I neared the place where the convicts were going over the wall one convict, who had escaped, picked up a large bowlder and said to me:

"If you come a step farther I will brain you."

"As I had no weapon, naturally I hesitated and stopped. The convict still threatened me with the stone when a trusty ran up from the gate. He had been attracted to the scene by the noise and cries. When he saw the man with the stone drawn back to hurl at me he called out to the convict:

"Don't hit that man; that is the Governor."

"With that he hurled himself on the convict and the two went to the ground in a rough and tumble fight. The 'trusty' hammered the other man with his fists and he was soon on his hands and knees. He sat on the prostrate form of his fellow convict until all trace of resistance had ceased and the guards had come up. Then he arose.

"The man who saved me from being struck was a client of mine. He and his brother had been tried in Madison County for the killing of a man. The brother escaped after his conviction and was never heard of again. He said that my client had nothing to do with the shooting and did not know anything about it until he saw the shot fired. But my client had nothing to do with the shooting and did not know anything about it until he saw the shot fired. But my client had nothing to do with the shooting and did not know anything about it until he saw the shot fired."

Have been using "MARK" Flour, made by the Madison Milling Co. for the last five months and am always delighted with the results of my baking. I state pleasure in recommending it.

Respectfully,

Deaths.

W. H. Wherrett, aged 87, one of the oldest and most highly revered citizens of Lancaster, was found dead in bed Friday. The death of Mr. Wherrett removes one of the most historic characters of that city, having been a confederate soldier since 1850, having been prominent in local affairs, and having filled several municipal and civic offices.

He was a native of Madison county. He leaves a wife, one son and two daughters, W. C. Wherrett, Mrs. W. H. Bogle and Mrs. Kate Herkle, all of New Orleans, one brother, T. P. Wherrett of this city, and three sisters, Mrs. Martha Haley of Richmond, Mrs. Clark Gilman and Miss Lizzie Wherrett also of New Orleans.

Mr. C. S. Minter, who was kicked by a horse about three weeks ago, died at his home on Boonesboro pike, Monday night as a result of his injury. While his condition was regarded as serious from the outset, friends of this excellent citizen felt that his brave fight for life would be rewarded by his restoration to health. However, the past week witnessed a great change for the worse and the spirit of this much admired gentleman passed to the Great Beyond. Deceased was sixty-four years of age, and was born in Lee county, Virginia, and moved to Kentucky early in life. He came from Owensboro county to Madison about sixteen years ago, where he made many friends and admirers. He was a very pleasing gentleman, one of the old school and those who knew him could but admire his gentle and many traits. Mr. Minter is survived by his wife and six children, namely: Messrs. Leonard, Robert, Charles, Minter, Mrs. Fannie Dalley and Miss Eva Minter. Funeral services will take place at the residence, on the Boonesboro pike, at 10 o'clock this morning, followed by interment in the Richmond cemetery.

No Christmas Money For Teachers.

County school teachers of the State are almost certain to lose their Christmas money under the operation of the new law extending from December 1 to 31 the date when sheriffs must make final settlement of tax collections with the State Auditor. Assistant State Auditor G. B. Likens took the matter up with Assistant Attorney General Morris to ascertain when the penalty goes on the sheriffs. The law was passed at the instance of Senator Claude Thomas at the recent session. It gives the sheriff thirty days longer than heretofore to make final settlement, and defers the 6 per cent. penalty on him for that length of time. Under the old law requiring settlement the first of December sufficient money was brought in to the teachers before Christmas. This year they cannot get their money until early in January.

New Money Order Office.

The Adams Express Co. has established a branch money order office in the center of the city for the benefit of their patrons. Mr. Wm. A. Gummert, traveling solicitor, from Chicago, was here last week, and the money order office established with the Richmond Drug Company. The express business is flourishing and greatly increasing at this point and the new office will be a great convenience to our people. To the uniting efforts of Mr. C. S. Jessup, the local agent, is due the credit for this new office. The company has also made arrangements with the Southern National Bank to handle travelers' checks in denominations of from $10 to $500. Any information concerning these checks can be obtained through Mr. J. E. Greenleaf, Cashier.

Have you seen them? Our ready-to-wear suits—all colors and styles—$16.00. SAVE THEIR WAGES

Thrift Convicts of Minnesota Prison Hoarding Earnings.

Some of the Long Term Prisoners at Stillwater Have Balances Ranging From $1,000 to $1,500 to Their Credit.

St. Paul, Minn.—While the capitalists of the country have parsimoniously advised young persons to "save their pennies and be rich some day," the prisoners at Stillwater penitentiary have been piling their time, hoarding their small earnings until many of them have sums ranging from $1,000 to $1,500 to their individual credit, according to the report of a visit to the institution made by J. H. Swann, a member, and J. C. Mitchell, secretary of the state board of visitors. The report was submitted to Governor Eberhart.

The report does not say how long these particular prisoners have been confined in the penitentiary, but some light is thrown on their saving ability by the following paragraph from the report:

"In December, 1911, the 55 men employed in the farm machinery division received an average pay of $4.85 a man; the 205 men in the shoe factory received an average pay of $4.15 a man; the 114 men in the support division (cooks, waiters, barbers, etc.) received an average of $4.63 each."

Taking up the suggestion of Governor Eberhart that some means be provided for state aid to families left in need by prisoners committed to workhouses and the state prison, the report is devoted only to the latter, saying that "but five per cent. of the men in state prison have families they have left in need of state aid."

"This is because the prisoners as a whole are men of poor character, who have no settled home and who, accordingly, have no one dependent upon them."

"In this connection," the report continues, "a law enacted in 1903 to the effect that if a prisoner is the head of a family, he shall be allowed to receive state aid for dependent families of men in the state prison. Families are now being paid an average of $15 a month under this statute."

Commenting on the recently established prison for the criminal insane at St. Peter, the report says there are ten prisoners at St. Peter who are advanced in insanity they are unable to do work, while there are thirty others who are able to work part of the time. Then it adds:

"It is a well known fact that there are a sufficient number of criminal insane at Stillwater and other state institutions to fill completely another such building as now houses this class of unfortunate at St. Peter."

Conditions, from a sanitary and clean standpoint, are excellent at the institution, the report says, adding:

"In spite of the fact that the buildings and general plant are old and out of date, the best is made of every disadvantage—a fact that has given Warden Wolfers for many years the reputation of being unexcelled."

Seeking A Sensation

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press)

Caruthers jammed his nose book into his pocket; lit his big calabash pipe, took up his walking stick and soft hat and whistled to his dog, Mike. A moment later he was swinging off across the fields surrounding the village.

Caruthers could not tell the dog that he had written a story in which an alrship figure and that his knowledge of bird and men and their craft was laudably correct.

"We will stroll about the fields, Mikey, in the hope that some conqueror of the air will chance to pass over our ignorant heads. In that way we may glean a sufficient atmosphere to make our story real."

Half an hour later Caruthers was lying full length in the long grass. Mike, more or less disgusted that the walk had turned out as it usually did, nosed about for venturesome snakes and moles.

Suddenly he pricked up his ears. A buzzing as of many bees disturbed the silence. The dog grew louder, nearer. Mike circled about like mad until he caught sight of the great flying thing that was approaching nearer and nearer.

Caruthers completely disgusted at his master's lack of enthusiasm, put his nose to the sky and yelled frantically at the flying monster.

His efforts were successful. Caruthers awoke from his dreaming and sat bolt upright.

Steady and smooth as a bark on a calm sea the bi-plane sailed majestically through the air.

"By Jove, Mike!" Caruthers exclaimed in his enthusiasm, "I would give the whole of my last cheque for the sensation of gliding through space like this!"

As if in direct answer to his desire a massive beam hurled down from the alrship.

Caruthers picked up the missile and held it up to the light.

"Whoever finds this note of mine, Can fly with me at any time. Call at hanger number nine."

"N. QUILLER."

We will have to wait until tomorrow for our sensation," he told Mike as he made their way back to the lonely bungalow on the hill.

But the next day rain came down in torrents and nothing was to be done. There had been a vague notion that bird men did not make flights in rainy weather.

The following day he and Mike set out for the aviation grounds.

Caruthers slackened his pace but when he drew near to the hanger that bore the name of N. Quiller.

Within voices were heard and outside lay the great bi-plane.

Caruthers knocked at the green door and Mike barked imperiously.

A small man came from within and through the smoky goggles of his leather helmet looked at the author.

"What a beautiful morning!" he said, looking at the sky.

Caruthers held out the square of lead with its bit of paper.

"I am looking for a man by the name of N. Quiller—the man who wrote this note of mine."

A silver laugh came from behind the goggles. Caruthers started back.

"So you picked up my note?" The laugh came again and Caruthers found himself making mistakes of it.

"I hoped it would be found and if you are ready we will go up immediately."

Caruthers had drawn away in his embarrassment. "I had not expected to find a lady," he said hesitatingly and twirling his cap in a vague, undecided manner.

The voice from behind the goggles was slightly mocking. "You are not afraid, are you?"

"I might be if I could see your face," Caruthers told him with his whimsical smile.

Natalia Quiller colored swiftly beneath the leather bonnet. "Then you can not see my face until we reach terra firma," she cried laughingly.

"Come—I will take you up as my note promised."

"Don't you want to know the name of your passenger in case?"

"In case we come down quicker than we expect?" she laughed. "Yes," she said softly. "Yes—yes—I would like to know your name."

"John Caruthers—and that is my dog, Mike."

"Is my passenger then, the John Caruthers of short story fame?"

"I was seeking sensations for a story when your missive nearly took my ear off," the author said.

"I hope you find—sensations," Natalia said with a wicked light in the eyes behind the goggles. And Caruthers found more than a story—he found a wife in the air.

Dressing for the Party

"Oh, say, mother, I don't want 'em manuevered," protested the boy who was going to a party. "Sissy nails are awful silly. Why, till's never had his nails polished, and he said to me just yesterday that he'd never heard of anybody having to take a bath every day except me. I've asked every boy in this block and there ain't a single fellow who has to take a bath more'n once a week. Now I've got to take an extra one this afternoon on account of Maybelle's party! Gee! color? I'll clean my nails and scrub my teeth every morning without your reminding me. I will, honest. Why, if Bill knew I was going to have a party he'd give me terrible."

"You say you're going to give me one to return all this hospitality? Oh, say, mother, please don't. I don't see what I've done that you're going to give me a party. If you only won't I'll be more careful about my English and I'll clean my nails and scrub my teeth every morning without your reminding me. I will, honest. Why, if Bill knew I was going to have a party he'd give me terrible."

"There's no use training me up for society, 'cause I'm going to be a gold miner. Bill knows about a mine out in Nome or Nevada that's awful rich. There's gold nuggets as big as your foot and he and me—I mean I and him—are going out there as soon as we're 16. There was one fellow who went out when he was only 15 going on 16 and now he's a millionaire."

"Well, anyway, if I do have to go to college first before I'm a miner, I'll be a athlete. No society for me, mother, so I don't see why I can't out party and dancing school."

"That brown stuff on my hands? Oh, that's the mahogany stain Bill and me are going to put on my model aeroplane. I was just trying it. Ain't it a swell color? Of course it won't come off easy or it wouldn't be any good. Bill was coming over this afternoon to work on the aeroplane. He'll be awful sore when he finds out that you made me go to a party. Bill hasn't got any mother. She died when he was a kid a few days old. Of course, it was an awful sad loss to Bill, but he is real brave about it. He says his father wouldn't know if he didn't take a bath for a month. His father believes in letting Bill grow up independent and develop his own character, that's what he says. Oh, yes, Bill takes a bath right often. I didn't say he didn't."

"Oh, say, mother, do I have to wear them silk stockings and pumps? I hope I won't be anywhere around when I start to the party. I don't care if Aunt Julia did give 'em to me. I'd rather she'd given me some leggings or a pair of ice skates. I've got to go to Aunt Julia's next Saturday!"

"Say, mother, it's awful mean the way my Saturdays go. Bill and me—I mean I and Bill—ain't that right? Well, then, us—we was going to go to the aeroplane and make other model all by ourselves, and now if I've got to go to Aunt Julia's I don't know when I'll have time for anything."

"I haven't written to grandpa yet. Of course not. With all them parties and calls on Aunt Julia I don't have a minute to write letters. I guess if grandpa knew how my time was spent he wouldn't expect me to write to thank him for that jackknife Bill says it's a pretty good knife and he's going to get a man he knows to sharpen it for me. The man used to be his father's hired man. I think he's got a horse, before Bill was born, and he's such an old friend of the family that he'll do it for nothing. So even if you don't think Bill is a good companion for me, you can see what a valuable friend he is."

"Oh, say, mother, I hate that sissy tie! Can't I wear my old dark blue one? No, I ain't cheating gum. I just happened to have a little in my mouth, but I wasn't chewing it. I never chew it since you told me not to the last time. But I've got a little on hand if I think I ought to use up, so I just put it in my mouth once in a while."

"Lemme comb my hair myself, mother. I can part it straight. Say, did you know that? That's Bill's whistle. Lemme go to the window and holler down that it's all off with the aeroplane work today, for I've got to go to a party."

"Say, mother, what do you think? Bill's all dolled up in a lot of new clothes and he's going to Maybelle's party himself. Wouldn't that freeze you?"—Chicago Daily News.

Success in Constancy.
 The secrecy of success is constancy to purpose.—Disraeli.

Base-ball.
 Baseball, a purely American institution, is played by a million fans, the newspapers and an umpire, assisted by two widely worshipped idols called pitchers. There are a few other supermen in the game, but they are of no particular detriment. The contestants have out of doors nine months in the year and in vaudeville the rest of the time. The pitcher, unlike his inanimate namesake, is of no value when full. A wild pitcher is one who indulges in high balls. The purpose of the game is to score. When a team can't score a run, it scores the umpire. When the players are new they are coached by a manager, and when they are free he can them. Baseball is not considered a dangerous sport, although it causes a gigantic mortality among grandmothers each year. A baseball fan is a curious instrument used to keep the air in motion. It does not shut up, like many kinds of fans. A blower is a wide flight of steps, so arranged as to get the full benefit of the afternoon sun and to be entirely cut off from breezes. One row of bleacher seats will comfortably accommodate a greater multitude of rooters than all the upholstered pews in a full-sized modern church. Here is an abbreviated dictionary of terms used in baseball.

His Vaudeville act headed by a big leaguer.

Error—Any decision of the umpire against the team you are backing.

It's a shock—A fan's hope of the hereafter.

Kiss hole—A small boy's pre-pupstip.

Just—An excuse for playing a bum game.

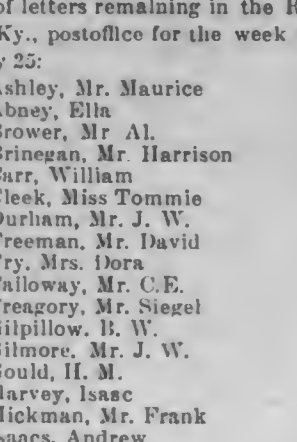

Time Drains—The time of a pitcher's arm.

Trimmings of a pitcher's arm.

Fake Eye Examinations

Ever Occur to You, What Really Constitutes a Proper Eye Examination?

Ever have your eyes examined by one of these "short term" opticians or optometrists? Ever have him place a card before your eyes and ask you to read as far as you could when he held glasses before your eyes? Ever have a "spectacle peddler" have you look in an instrument and slide a card back until you found a place where you could see the best? Then have him hand you a pair of magnifying glasses, corresponding with whatever number was on the card or instrument?

Did it ever occur to you that in going through this procedure you are simply examining yourself, and the "optician or spectacle peddler" depends entirely upon your answers to the kind of a glass to give you, and really know no more about an eye than you do yourself. Think of calling such poppycock as this an eye examination.

What would you think if you were ill and called in your family doctor and the only examination he would give you would be to ask: "What do you think is the matter with you and you would reply, 'I think I have kidney trouble!'" Suppose he would commence giving you medicine, at your say so, for your kidneys when some other organ was diseased? How long do you think it would be before you would be an angel?

All these "one week term opticians and spectacle peddlers," none of whom have any medical education of the eye, can give you eye magnifying glasses. Nine times out of ten they do more harm than good. How long do you think it will be after wearing these wrongly fitted magnifying glasses before you will have cataracts, growths upon the eyeballs, granulated eyelids, headache, impaired blood circulation of the eyes and partial or total blindness.

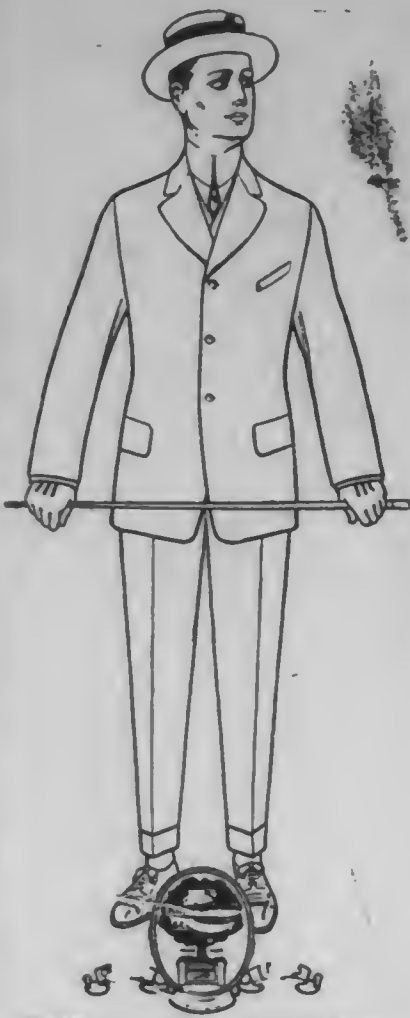

When in need of eye attention or glasses, always consult an oculist, an optician, one having a thorough medical education of the eye, its appendages and diseases, and have your glasses adjusted properly for your defects of sight—costs no more.

Interesting Letter.

Valuable Decision.

The decision of the Appellate Court holding that a majority of a Fiscal Court, and not a majority of a quorum, must determine a question before a court, is a valuable one, says the Frankfort News-Journal. There should at least be required of the members of Fiscal Court a formal attention to their duties. A majority of a quorum should certainly not be allowed to have authority to dispose of county funds and do acts of importance to taxpayers.

The graduating class was composed of Daisy Hill, Carlisle Walker Breck, Eva McDowell Crutcher, Viola Dixon Plack, Gladys Walkey Haley, Frances B. Massey, Ruth Jane Miller, Anna Hunter Noland.

Shooting on Jolly Ridge.

A difficulty occurred on Jolly Ridge, this county, last week between T. E. and Squire Williams and as a result Williams was seriously if not mortally wounded. The cause of the trouble could not be ascertained at the time of going to press, as no warrants had been issued and those interviewed seemed reluctant to speak of the matter.

Williams received two bullet wounds in the abdomen and is in a very critical condition, with little prospects of recovery. The participants in the difficulty are both young men and popular with a large number of acquaintances in that section of the county.

Final Distribution.

The farmers may now soon expect a final distribution of money received by the Burley Society from the sale of the 1909 pooled tobacco, says the Cynthiana Log Cabin.

The Court of Appeals has decided in favor of the society in the suit appealed from Pendleton county and the higher court sustains the society's right to equitable prices among all the growers without regard to county lines. Also, the final judgment has been entered in favor of the society in the Eshelby damage suit which was won by the society.

All exercises except the Sunday night service, will be held in the High School Auditorium.

Democratic Convention

Largest Gathering of Democrats Seen in Richmond in Years Attend County Convention Saturday.

As predicted by THE CLIMAX for the past several weeks, the largest gathering of Democrats, possibly who ever attended a county convention in this city, was present Saturday. The crowd began to arrive early in the day, and long before the hour set for the convention the streets resembled one of our busiest court days. Greater interest was displayed by the followers of Jeffersonian doctrines than has been evidenced to the writer during the years of his connection with this paper. The Democracy of Madison is thoroughly wrought up to the importance of the coming presidential election, the brilliant prospects that lie before the Democracy of the nation to again come into possession of its own, and all realized that the important features to be considered at this meeting should be given a clear and frank hearing and participated in by the Democracy of Madison county and not by only a select few. Harmony predominated. Not a single voice was raised in opposition to the selection of chairman, the resolution committee, or the resolutions as reported. The court room was packed to overflowing, many had to turn away for lack of space in which to stand as seating capacity was consumed before the court house bell announced the hour for the convention. Never in the experience of THE CLIMAX reporter, have we witnessed a larger or more earnest set of men in a convention than that of Madison county, but all representatives of Democracy, and a more substantial and influential congregation never assembled in that court room. The convention was called to order by Hon. J. A. Sullivan, chairman of Madison county Democratic Committee, who stated the purpose of the meeting and that the selection of permanent chairman was in order. Judge W. R. Shackelford placed in nomination the name of Hon. W. B. Smith, to whom he referred as the "Nestor" of Madison county Democracy, and paid a beautiful compliment to the distinguished and honored citizen. Mr. Smith's election was by acclamation. Messrs. T. H. Pickles and A. D. Miller, of The Register, and THE CLIMAX, respectively, were selected secretaries.

Upon motion the chairman appointed the following gentlemen as members of the Resolution Committee: W. S. Moberley, J. C. Oldham, W. R. Shackelford, O. P. Jackson, T. J. Curtis, James B. Parkes, J. T. Cobb, P. B. Broadbuss, and J. W. Ballard. The committee retired to an adjoining room and while engaged in preparing resolutions, short and pleasing speeches were made by Hon. J. A. Sullivan, who referred to his announcement for Congress and spoke of the flattering prospects of his nomination at the primary to be held this fall. Mr. Sullivan was followed by the chairmen, Hon. W. B. Smith, Messrs. Jesse Webb, John Noland and Judge J. D. Goodloe, all of whom spoke in an encouraging vein of the prospects of Democratic victory at the polls next November. The following resolutions were reported by the committee, and were unanimously adopted:

1st. Resolved, that we, Democrats of Madison county, Kentucky, in convention assembled, pursuant to the call of the Democratic State Central Committee, do approve the call of said committee for Democratic County Conventions throughout the State of Kentucky, to select delegates to the State Democratic Convention, to be held at Louisville, Kentucky, on May 25th, 1912.

2nd. Be it further resolved, that we endorse our Democratic platform, and we will follow the lead of the Democratic Party in the State of Kentucky, to elect Rufus Van Sant, ably and valiantly assisted in that splendid work by our brilliant fellow citizens, the Hon. J. A. Sullivan, and we will support our delegate in Louisville to vote for said Rufus Van Sant for Governor of the State of Kentucky.

3rd. Be it further resolved, that we, Democrats of Madison county, Kentucky, in convention assembled, do hereby select the following delegates to the State Democratic Convention, to be held at Louisville, Kentucky, on May 25th, 1912:

1. James B. McCrory, 2. W. B. Smith, 3. J. A. Sullivan, 4. J. R. Shackelford, 5. T. H. Cobb, 6. O. P. Jackson, 7. W. S. Moberley, 8. Joe Oldham, 9. Thos. J. Smith, 10. Jas. B. Parkes, 11. J. T. Cobb, 12. J. R. Dunbar, 13. Chas. L. Seay, 14. Jno. W. Ballard, 15. H. C. Rice.

be, and they are hereby selected the delegates of this convention to represent us as our delegates to the State and District Democratic Convention to meet in Louisville, Ky., on May 25th, 1912; and the following Democrats of Madison county, Kentucky, to wit:

T. H. Collins, A. D. Miller, Green Clay, M. H. Cohen, R. B. Terrill, Jake Collins, A. K. Doty, T. H. Pickles, P. B. Broadbuss, J. D. Goodloe, D. Frank Sharp, Dennis Taylor, Wm. Jenkins, G. C. Burgin, E. T. Fish; be and they are hereby selected as alternates to said convention, in Louisville, Ky.; the said alternates to take the places and cast the votes of such of the regular delegates, as may be absent, in the order in which such alternates are named.

6th. Be it further resolved, that our delegates and alternates heretofore named, are positively instructed to cast the vote of Madison county, Kentucky, in said State and District Conventions, as a unit for the Hon. Champ Clark, for the nomination of Democratic candidate for President of the United States, and as his name or his delegates are before said convention or conventions, and our said delegates and alternates are further positively instructed to vote for and to use all honorable means to secure a solid Clark delegation from Kentucky to the Baltimore Convention, with instructions to vote as a unit for Hon. Champ Clark, for Democratic nominee for President of the United States, as long as his name is before the convention.

7th. Be it further resolved, that the aforesaid delegates and alternates are instructed to cast the vote of Madison county, Ky., in the said State Convention as a unit for our country man, Governor James B. McCrory, for delegate-at-large from the State of Kentucky to the said Baltimore Convention.

8th. Be it further resolved, that we, Democrats of Madison county, Kentucky, in convention assembled, do hereby endorse the Democratic Party at the last State election by the Hon. Rufus Van Sant, ably and valiantly assisted in that splendid work by our brilliant fellow citizens, the Hon. J. A. Sullivan, and we will support our delegate in Louisville to vote for said Rufus Van Sant for Governor of the State of Kentucky.

9th. Appreciating the long and faithful services of the Hon. J. A. Sullivan to the Democratic party, who is now a candidate for Congress from this district, we, his fellow citizens heartily endorse his candidacy.

10th. All delegates are instructed to vote on all questions which may come before the Louisville Convention as a unit. Signed by the committee: J. T. Cobb, J. C. Oldham, P. B. Broadbuss, W. S. Moberley, T. J. Curtis, O. P. Jackson, W. R. Shackelford, Jas. B. Parkes, J. W. Ballard.

On motion said resolutions were unanimously adopted, and the convention adjourned. Given under our hands as Chairman and Secretaries of said convention, this 25th day, 1912.

Judge Chenault Appointed Receiver.

Judge John C. Chenault, of this city, has been appointed receiver of the Big Hill Coal Company, and executed bond in the sum of $50,000. The following press dispatch from Maysville, says:

Federal Judge, A. M. J. Cochran, Friday heard in chambers here the argument in the case of John H. Jones against the Big Hill Coal Co., of Kentucky. Suit was brought to enforce mortgage claims against properties in Lee and Bell counties in favor of Jones. Claimants asked that a receiver be appointed for the concern, and John C. Chenault, of Richmond, Ky., was named by the court. The suit is for $87,300, and was filed in the United States District Court at Covington yesterday by John H. Jones, trustee. A restraining order was asked to prevent the State Bank & Trust Co., trustee; the New Straight Creek Coal Co., the Louisville and Atlantic Coal Co., J. F. Cluts, administrator for the estate of Edward Cluts, deceased, and J. F. Kinsaid, all co-defendants in the case, from taking possession of or levying upon the property of the Big Hill Coal Co.

Two Situations.

Recently a salesman for the Madison Milling Company of this city, was sent to Winchester and Clark county for the purpose of selling flour. He spent an entire day in the city of Winchester without being able to dispose of a single bag of flour or meal. He found the merchants exceedingly courteous, but very positive in their refusal to purchase. Why? The same reason was given by every one of the merchants, and it was this: "Our patrons demand goods made in Winchester and we will use nothing else. Therefore we will purchase only products manufactured in our city." This is the situation there. Now, what is it in Richmond and Madison county? Richmond and Madison county are looked upon as the dumping ground for all surplus and refuse products of these foreign countries. Our merchants prefer to carry and sell home-made flour, because it keeps the money in circulation here, and because the home products are better and delivered in better condition, no dirt, torn, dirty and short-weight bags. But they say our customers call for Winchester, Lexington, Versailles, Louisville, and some even a northern flour, and we must keep what they want. This is the situation in Richmond and Madison county. Stop and think for a moment. You can change this situation in ninety days. If you will only do so, and without any risk whatever. Next time you need flour, order a sack of "MARY," and if not whiter, lighter and sweeter than any flour you have ever used, have your grocer come and get and refund full purchase price. This plan is not an account of a lack of business for our mill runs twelve hours every day and six days in every week, without any accumulation of stock, but we are forced to go to Eastern Kentucky for a large share of our trade, when our entire output should be placed in Richmond and Madison county. It is our intention to place a sack of "MARY" in every home in the State of Kentucky. You can help us in this work by placing a sack of "MARY" in your home.

Don't forget W. W. Broadbuss & Co. will furnish you with good, hard brick at $9 per thousand.

Think of wool—a big price, too—then think of Goss.
